

Keeper ... continued

He tied my feet behind my back
Which made me say a prayer;
I cried for help, but no one came!
My hair got greyer and greyer.

I made it to the other side
Through every nook and cranny.
A dinosaur felt sorry for me
And she became my nanny.

The rest of my story is really true!
(I hope I made you smile.)
Now I'm here at Journey's End,
Forever and a while.

Then an angel turned me loose
And sent me to the river!
I swam across to safety;
The cold water made me shiver.

Okay, everything I said above
Is just a made-up tale.
I'm so sorry I fibbed a lot —
Please don't send me to jail.

The real story is, I was on the street
When a young man picked me up.
"You have no home?"
Well, I know of one!
You're such a loving pup!"

Journey's End kids saw me coming
And said, "Hey, let's go and greet her!"
And then they said to Florence,
"Can we keep her? Please, let's keep her!"

And now I'm here forever.
Oh my goodness, jeeper creeper —
So have you guessed my name by now?
You got it — my name's Keeper!

We wish to express our gratitude, as always, to each of you whose generous support enables us to continue to provide a safe haven for so many precious animals. Please know that we treasure every one of you for your loyalty and ongoing support. The mission of Journey's End began as a dream, and it's because of you that it became and remains a reality.

An Urgent Plea for the Safety of the Animals

While we all honor the celebration of America's Independence, with July 4th approaching, we are once more concerned about the effect of fireworks on the animals. This is a concern not only for Journey's End animals, but for wild and domestic animals everywhere. Many are unaware that there are safety concerns beyond stray sparks that may cause fires. Each July 4th, we must be vigilant in guarding the horses throughout the night, putting cotton in their ears, as they are so alarmed by the loud noises. We have old dogs with heart problems who are frightened by the loud sounds, as well. Cats, birds, and other animals can similarly become distraught by what are strange and frightening noises we cannot explain to them to put them at ease. Please be thoughtful of your neighbors, keeping this in mind, and encourage more quiet celebration, such as the use of sparklers. For the animals... thank you!!
